Students created a publicity poster for the film 'How Green was my Valley', which had to include one sentence, or some phrases of their own making. The sentence had to capture the essence or quality of the film and transmit it to the public.

How Green Was My Valley

An unpretentious Welsh coal-mining community is overtaken by the cannoning power of industrialization.

Olivia P. 7F

The family is what you remember - but it is what you want to remember about the family that is important.

Nicholas N. 7F

Ravenous hands devour the earth and an innocent boy searches for a time that exists no more.

James H. 7F

What you love is what you choose to remember.

Matilde 7T

Once you see this movie, you will see things and think things differently for the rest of your life.

Nadia 7T

People may be lost, towns may be lost, but memories of them remain.

Nawin 7T

After watching this movie you'll understand how positive things can turn into negative things, and how difficult it is to manage things properly. But remember - this movie is full of meanings and each of you will find your own meaning.

Luca D 7T

Nature is beautiful and as long as we treat it well, wonderful things might happen.

Elisa C. 7dt

Everything can change but memories never fade.

Virginia D. 7F

The things that you still remember are the things that changed your life forever.

Cesare 7T

Nothing is impossible for a willing heart.

Anjali 7F

Memory is a part of us that seems small but is huge, and when this memory is important to us we cry because we know it won't be like that again.

Angelica 7T

When you love something it stays in your mind forever, just like the wonders of nature.

Idriss 7T

It got all worse, things changed, people died. But how green was my valley then.

Emilio P. 7F

It makes me think of so much good, which is now gone.

Tim Wolter 7DT

With time, also people change.

Alexis 7T

Memories of youth often resurface through the mist of time, sharp and clear in the light of old age.

Allegra 7T

A town can offer the love of many families and the beauty of nature if it is not darkened by man's polluted mind.

Giulia Z. 7T

No matter how dark the world may be, there are always some people who shine a light.

Alessandra 7T

The greedy tentacles of industry break down a boy's paradise.

Antoine 7F

What you remember is what you choose to remember.

Mattia 7F

No matter how much time passes, your childhood memories remain as vivid as if they were yesterday, and they keep your heart as humble and innocent as it used to be.

Pihla 7T

A very emotional film that will make you understand the true meaning of labour.

Danyal 7T

The heart-breaking story of Huw Morgan's journey from childhood to maturity.

Yoel 7F

Memories last a lifetime.

Mina 7F

Memories of the harmony of a family and the good times passed together turn into a valley that a child will always remember.

Valeria 7F

In a small coal-mining town, a boy tells his story, and the way he saw the world so differently from how it really was will touch your hearts.

Julia A. 7T

The black colliery that ruled the valley - green it was and black it became.

Andrea O. 7DT

Through one child's eyes there is greatness and beauty, but through a man's eyes there is darkness and disillusion.

Lucas S. 7DT

A nostalgic and dramatic reminiscence of a time that is gone and a family now disintegrated.

Camilla 7Dt

In children's eyes, the world was colorful, but not for Huw Morgan, after what had happened.

Yi 7DT

In the eyes of a child, everything seems wonderful, until the colliery begins to poke its skinny black fingers through the green.

Emma V. 7DT

The life of a boy. . . . Long lost love . . . The fall of a family.

William 7DT

Seen in the eyes of a child, the rebellion of nature against the power of man seems minuscule, but in those of a man seems immense.

Emma Z. 7DT

Memory makes dreams and reality merge and keeps everything amazingly alive.

Giovanni 7DT

Nostalgia . . . Vibrant . . . Melodrama . . . Sentimental . . . Passion . . . Not to be missed.

David C. 7T

Before you realize it everything changes, but memories never die.

Rebecca 7F

When you are a child you don't think of what's around you but when you become older and have a more knowledge you think of what you could have done in that particular situation.

Simone 7DT

When time passes things will change but with memories, they will never fade.
